The ATP did Khachanov and Rublev a favor by moving their scheduled match from Friday to Saturday to give them one more day to recuperate. It didn't help, and now that means Fonseca and Diablo who pulled off the upsets play again Sunday against an opponent that had Saturday off.

Medvedev speaks:

The Russian star shares details about his saga in Dubai

The most anticipated match of the first week is upon us and it's in the primetime slot on Sunday. Stadium 1 at the Indian Wells Tennis Garden at 6 p.m. will be rocking.

That's when the stadium will be rocking as the most anticipated match of the BNP Paribas Open so far will blast off as Filipino sensation Alexandra Eala and her rabid followers will flood the stadium to see her go against American star and World No. 4 Coco Gauff. It should be bedlam.
